Electromagnetic Pulses (EMPs)

I. EMP Basics

II. Types of EMPs

- a) Natural
- b) Man-made

III. What happens during a man-made EMP?

IV. History of EMPs

V. Probability of a modern day EMP disaster

VI. What to expect in the event of an EMP

QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION (do not feel the need to limit your comments to these questions)

1. How real a threat do you think this is?
2. Do you have a disaster plan in place for any sort of catastrophe (not just the long-term effects from an EMP)?

Start building a Disaster Preparedness Plan now. Dr. Arthur T. Bradley recommends...

- * Stock a minimum 30 day supply of non-perishable food for every member of your household (including pets).
- * Store enough drinkable water to sustain your family for 14 days (plan on 2 gallons per person per day).
- * Have enough non-potable water on hand to gravity flush your toilet for a couple of weeks.
- * Make sure you have batteries, fuel, ammunition, candles, diapers, plastic bags, paper products, etc.
- * Make sure every member of your household has a flashlight and also have lanterns, candles on hand.
- * Have access to an emergency fund of cash to support your family for at least three months.
- * Identify two places you can go out-of-town and plan your evacuation routes.
- * Have a properly-sized backup heating system with enough fuel to get through a winter storm
- * Have a well-stocked first aid kit (and be trained to administer aid).
- * Stockpile a minimum 30 day supply of medicine and over-the-counter pharmaceuticals.
- * Determine the special needs of members of your household (elderly, those with disabilities or medical conditions).
- * Establish a network of likeminded individuals who are interested in working together during this time of crisis.
